

Accommodations for Disabilities

It is the policy of MTI College to comply with state and federal regulations that prohibit discrimination on the basis of disability, including Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Rehabilitation Act). As such, faculty and staff have the responsibility to become familiar with MTI's policy and reasonably accommodate disabled students who have special needs that have been identified at the time of enrollment or while attending classes at MTI.

The Rehabilitation Act, states that, no qualified handicapped person shall, on the basis of handicap, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or otherwise be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity which receives Federal financial assistance ("college, university or other post-secondary institution, or a public system of higher education"). Further, the act defines an individual as "handicapped" if he/she:

- Has a mental or physical impairment which substantially limits one or more of such person's major life activities (see below);
- Has a record of such impairment; or
- Is regarded as having such impairment.

Definitions:

Physical or mental impairment means (A) any physiological disorder or condition, cosmetic disfigurement, or anatomical loss affecting one or more of the following body systems: neurological; musculoskeletal; special sense organs; respiratory, including speech organs; cardiovascular; reproductive, digestive, genito-urinary; hemic and lymphatic; skin; and endocrine; or (B) any mental or psychological disorder, such as mental retardation, organic brain syndrome, emotional or mental illness, and specific learning disabilities.

Major life activities means functions such as caring for one's self, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working.

Has a record of such an impairment means has a history of, or has been misclassified as having, a mental or physical impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities.

Is regarded as having an impairment means (A) has a physical or mental impairment that does not substantially limit major life activities but that is treated by a recipient as constituting such a limitation; (B) has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits major life activities only as a result of the attitudes of others toward such impairment; or (C) has none of the impairments defined in paragraph (j)(2)(i) of this section but is treated by a recipient as having such an impairment.

To summarize the above as it applies to MTI College, as an institution participating in the federal financial aid programs, no qualified individual with a disability in the United States shall be excluded from, denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any of MTI's programs or activities. For the purposes of this statement, "qualified" with respect to post-secondary educational services means a person who meets the academic and technical standards required for admission or participation in the educational program activity, with or without reasonable modifications to rules, policies or practices; the removal of architectural, communication or transportation barriers; or the provision of auxiliary aids and services.

Reasonable accommodation does not negate requirements for successful completion of a program, course, service and/or activity, adherence to generally acceptable standards of behavior and the College's stated student policies, and adherence to administrative and faculty/staff directions and instructions.

In determining the College's ability to offer reasonable accommodation to an otherwise qualified student with a disability, each request for an accommodation will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. Factors to be examined include among others:

- The academic and technical standards required for admission or participation in an educational program or service;
- The purpose and nature of the program, course, and/or service;
- The precise education-related abilities and functional limitations of the student and how those limitations could be overcome with reasonable accommodations;
- The nature and cost of accommodation required in relation to the College's financial resources;
- The consequences of such an accommodation upon the operation and educational mission of the College, course, program, service and/or activity;
- Other federal, state and local regulatory requirements.

An otherwise qualified student who requires attendant care services must make arrangements to provide for his/her own attendant care services. The College does not assume the coordination or financial responsibilities for attendant care services.

The College is not required to offer or provide accommodation, to admit or to continue to admit, an individual with a disability to any particular program, course, service, and/or provide educational opportunities and other services when:

- The educational standards or mission of MTI would be substantially altered;
- The nature of the program, course, service, and/or activity would be fundamentally altered;

- The student is not otherwise qualified (with or without accommodations) to meet the academic and technical standards required for admission or participation in an educational program, course, service and/or activity;
- The effects of the disability cannot be overcome even with reasonable accommodation;
- The individual would not be able to complete the program, course, service, and/or activity, even with reasonable accommodations;
- An undue financial or administrative hardship (college-wide) would be caused by the accommodation;
- The individual would still pose a direct threat to the health or safety of himself/herself or others.

Like every other MTI applicant for enrollment, individuals with disabilities must demonstrate an ability to benefit in order to be accepted into the college. In the event a student's request for reasonable accommodation is denied, the student has the option to appeal the decision to the campus director.

Disclosure

The Department of Labor's equal opportunity regulations 29 CFR Part 37.37 (b)(2), require the collection and retention of demographic information about individuals participating in programs or activities funded by the department, such as race, ethnicity, age, gender and disability status. Services cannot be denied to students who decline to indicate their disability status. Requesting this information is not in conflict with the Rehabilitation Act as long as there is no evidence of denial of services as a result of providing the information, or of a student declining to identify a disability.

Procedure:

- MTI provides evaluation of individual needs, advisement, and appropriate support for academic programs of persons identified as disabled.
- If the student is new to MTI, it is his/her responsibility to contact the director of admissions (DOA) who is responsible for the initial assessment and enrollment of students with special needs.
- If the student is an existing student, it is his/her responsibility to contact their appropriate dean who is responsible for initializing accommodation assessments for existing students.
- The student must complete the MTI Student Disability Accommodation Request Application and submit it to the DOA or dean as appropriate (see above). The student may also be asked to provide an MTI Student Medical Evaluation Report that has been completed by a physician. If a student has an Individualized Education Program (IEP) from another institution, he/she may provide the IEP as additional information.

- If the student fails to return the application and supporting documentation, the DOA or the dean who received the initial request will contact the student to verify that the need still exists and offer assistance if necessary.
- When the application and supporting documentation are received from the student, it will be submitted to the campus director for evaluation and decision.
- If the request is approved, the student will be advised of any provisions or limitations of MTI's accommodation.
- For new students, the director of admissions will communicate the student's needs to the appropriate dean who will notify faculty and ensure the student's identified needs are accommodated.
- The student is responsible for speaking with his/her instructor no later than the first day of each term to discuss his/her needs and the accommodation. The instructor will contact the appropriate dean to verify that the accommodation has been approved.
- The student is responsible for notifying their appropriate dean as soon as possible should any problems arise concerning his/her academic program.
- In the event a student's request for reasonable accommodation is denied, the student has the option to appeal the decision.
- Requests to appeal the denial must be submitted in writing to the CFO or the campus director.

Please contact the director of education or campus director if you have questions or would like clarification.
